February 1 & 2 – Freddie Pink

Got soul? Freddy Pink has been delighting Northwest audiences for over twenty-five years with what he calls Northwest Rock 'n Soul. One critic dubbed the eight-piece band's unique style of rhythm and blues as "Jazz oriented, Blues-rock, Funk soul, with an Eagles-like twist". Freddy's vocals have been likened to that of David Clayton Thomas of Blood Sweat & Tears, as well as Otis Redding and Sam Cooke. The members of Freddie Pink have shared the stage with a host of touring greats: Tina Turner, The Miracles, Little Richard, Tower of Power, Sly Stone, Oscar Peterson, Johnny Rivers, and Edgar Winters, and many others.

February 8 & 9 – Jonathan Harris

Singer/songwriter Jonathan Harris, who has performed throughout the Pacific Northwest since 1997, has warmed the stage for a list of musicians that reads like a who's who list of country music: Merle Haggard, the Charlie Daniels Band, Jo Dee Messina, Asleep At The Wheel and Mark Chesnutt, just to name a few. Harris was born and raised in Tacoma, Washington and was named as one of Jim Beam's top five artists in the nation and he is proud to own the custom Les Paul guitar Jim Beam presented to him as a birthday gift. His boyish charm on stage and polished voice have earned him a loyal and dedicated following. In late 2006 Harris was signed by Region1Records in Nashville, TN, who, in April, 2007 released his new album, "Where Concrete Don't Grow".
